HOW TO PLAN THE PERFECT SUMMER HOLIDAY

Having a holiday is as essential for kids as it is for parents. Not only is it a chance for everyone to relax away from the pressures of work, school and day-to-day life, it is also an invaluable opportunity to gain new experiences and bond as a family.

DESTINATION

Destination is essential when planning your family summer holiday. A quiet, secluded island resort may seem like the perfect way to relax, but it could have the opposite effect when your child or children are left twiddling their thumbs for a week.

HOTEL OR VILLA?

This question is largely down to individual preference and the age of your children. The benefit of a hotel is that it offers parents a welcome break from the routine of food shopping and cooking that comes with a villa, which for other families may be part of the appeal. Villas may be more suitable for families with young children as the catering and laundry facilities allow them to better manage food, sleep and changing requirements.

RESORT

Many family holiday resorts offer kid's clubs which allow children to be safely looked after and entertained while parents can relax and unwind by the pool. Variety is key to keeping children happy on holiday, so opting for a hotel with a pool which is also on the beach and near a water park, for example, will allow for a change of scene when the novelty of one or the other wears off.
